Narendra Modi conferred with Papua New Guinea and Fiji's highest honour

1. Prime Minister Narendra Modi received the highest honors of Papua New Guinea and Fiji, an unprecedented acknowledgment of a non-resident in the two Pacific island nations.
2. During his maiden visit to Papua New Guinea, Modi hosted a significant summit between India and 14 Pacific island countries to bolster bilateral ties.
3. Governor-General of Papua New Guinea, Sir Bob Dadae, awarded Modi with the Grand Companion of the Order of Logohu (GCL), which is the country's highest civilian award.
4. This rare award is limited to a select group of "Chief" titleholders, which includes former US President Bill Clinton.
5. Papua New Guinea granted this award to Modi for his outstanding contribution towards promoting the unity of Pacific Island nations and spearheading the cause of the Global South.
6. In receiving the accolade, Modi gave credit to the people of India and the generations of the Fiji-Indian community for playing a crucial role in cementing a special and enduring bond between the two countries.
7. Throughout his tenure, Modi has received various international awards from many countries, including Russia, Saudi Arabia, Afghanistan, the United Arab Emirates, and the Maldives.
